2ND ANNUAL EQUITY IN PLANNING PANEL

Bringing equity and inclusion to the forefront of transportation planning.

Dr. Jesus Barajas, UIUC

Dr. Barajas's work investigates the relationships between the built environment, social factors, and transportation policy on travel behavior and safety for historically disadvantaged population groups.

Jacky Grimshaw, Center for Neighborhood Technology

Jacky has created and led CNT's transportation and air quality programs for over a decade. Jacky advocates for transit in the Chicago region, fighting for mass transit reform and dedicated funding in the Chicago region.

Roberto Requejo, Elevated Chicago

Elevated Chicago is a collaborative of organizations advancing racial equity in transit-oriented development. During the past 15 years, Roberto has helped organizations become more effective, inclusive, and influential.

Audrey Wennink, Metropolitan Planning Council

Audrey directs MPC's transportation efforts and coordinates transportation initiatives with other facets of planning including affordable housing, land use, equity, and the environment.
